OTTAWA, ON, July 30, 2020 /CNW/ - Industry leader in online estate planning, LegalWills, responds to teachers' worries about returning to their classrooms in September - amidst the COVID-19 pandemic - by providing free Wills and Health Care Power of Attorney documents to US, UK, and Canadian teachers and education workers.

From August 1 to 31, any education worker that is employed within a school in the 3 countries LegalWills services, including principals, librarians, teachers, educational assistants, office administrators and custodial staff, is eligible to receive a Will and Living Will (Health Care Power of Attorney), free of charge.

With more than 50% of North Americans without a Will, half of them are set to have no say in what happens to their assets should they pass. Even fewer North Americans have Health Care Power of Attorney documents, which allow you to nominate someone who can make health care decisions for you in the event that you get sick and are unable to make decisions for yourself - even temporarily.

"We wanted to do our part to support the education workers who are returning to school and risking their own health and safety during these uncertain times," says Tim Hewson, Chief Executive Officer and Co-founder of LegalWills. "As a parent of two young daughters, I've seen first hand the effects this pandemic is having on our education system, it's staff, and our children."

"To show our gratitude, we are offering a free Will and Living Will (Health Care Power of Attorney) to education's essential workers in the countries that we operate in. Let us take care of your important legal documents so you can stay focused on helping your students develop and achieve in the classroom (whether it be virtual or physical)."
